Higgs & Johnson Partner, Tara Archer and Associate, Audley Hanna attended the annual IBA Litigation Forum in Paris, France. The forum was entitled, Meeting the Challenges of Corporate Litigation in a Global Economy, and was organized by the IBA Litigation Committee of which both attorneys are members.

As litigation attorneys, they joined corporate counsel, managing partners, heads of law firm litigation departments and policymakers at the forum. The sessions highlighted a number of topics including:- Ethical aspects of multi-jurisdictional litigation; Managing the interplay between regulatory investigations and litigation; and Group actions.

Mrs. Archer noted, "The sessions conducted at the conference highlighted the increasing interconnectivity of litigation across jurisdictions as well as the manner in which the process is evolving. We enjoyed the exchange of information provided from other leading experts in the field on how to handle regulatory investigations; and on understanding the interplay between such investigations and the litigation risks. I should also add that Paris is absolutely beautiful in the Spring."

Mrs. Archer and Mr. Hanna are Officers of various IBA Committees. Mrs. Archer has over sixteen (16) years of legal experience and she along with Mr. Hanna practice in the areas of commercial and civil litigation, law of insolvency, banking law, employment law and IP law.
